

Micro-Cat

The "Micro-Cat" Miniature Windscreen allows the use of lavalier microphones in windy conditions that would otherwise cause serious audio problems.

Hand-made from a fuzzy outer layer plus two additional inner layers of open weave fabric, the "Micro-Cat" very effectively stops wind from reaching the microphone to substantially reduce wind noise while remaining sonically transparent. The elastic opening easily fits over most lav microphones with diameters of up to 12mm.

When used with narrow microphones such as the Sanken COS-11, the microphone's normal mesh windscreens is used inside the "Micro-Cat" for a secure fit. Even the tiny Countryman B-6 works well in the "Micro-Cat" when combined with the microphone's foam ball.

Because of the increased potential for clothing noise when concealed, The "Micro-Cat" is best used outside the clothing, fully exposed. For long wide shots that are sometimes the reason for needing a wireless lav microphone in the first place, the Micro Cat's neutral gray or black colors can often go completely unnoticed.

The supplied miniature screwdrivers are a convenient way of storing the "Micro-Cat", aiding in finding the opening and keeping them from blowing away during those windy shoots. "Micro-Cats" are available in black, tan, gray and white.
